The North Carolina Geological and Economic Survey co-operated with the Forest Service in this work in this State, and got together some very interesting figures. Though admittedly incomplete, these were published by the State Survey in Economic Paper No. 19, Forest Fires in North Carolina During 1909. This publication has been scattered widely through the State, and is still available for distribution. It should be read in connection with the present report in order to best understand the application of the figures and to obtain much information which it was thought best not to repeat. Owing to the failure of many of the States to obtain sufficient reliable information, the general fire study of the Forest Service, which was intended to be annual and permanent, has been discontinued. The North Carolina Geological and Economic Survey then had to decide as to the advisability of continuing the collection of these figures unaided. Though the data collected last year was far from satisfactory, still it was thought that the economic and educational value of such figures was great enough to warrant the expense of collecting them. With the hope, therefore, of increasing their accuracy and broadening their influence, the Survey determined to continue the collection of this information in regard to the annual destruction by forest fires. Accordingly, as soon as the year closed, question blanks were sent out to about eight hundred correspondents in all parts of the...
