Our assertion now is not that the resurrection is something we can observe, but that we have evidence sufficient to make our hope in it a vital one. All our study of the operations of Nature confirm us in it, the mosquito, the butterfly, every winged creature preach to us the gospel of the resurrection. When we come to the resurrection of Jesus, the case is altogether different. Here we are in the domain of pure science. This is a fact in the history of the race. The Apostles saw the empty tomb. They saw the risen man. They knew he was their Master. St. Thomas touched His hand and side. St. Peter talked with Him as of old. St. Paul saw him near Damascus. St. John says, That which we have seen, handled, heard, declare we unto you. They do not preach a theory of immortality. They are witnesses of the resurrection of Jesus, of what they saw and heard. Witness the royal indignation of St. Paul against those who deny the resurrection. It was an impeachment of his intelligence and honesty. It made him and all the apostles liars. It is easy for the literary critic after 1800 years to sit in his study and in cold blood try to discredit the honesty and sagacity of those men who gave their lives as testimony of the truth of what they saw and heard. Oh, yes,...
