After he had laid himself under this engagement, he put off the fulfilling of the contract from time to time, pretending that he was at law for an estate in Scotland; and that he could not marry, conveniently, till he was put in possession of this income. Under this pretence he continued his intimacy and visits to the gentlewoman, after she had left her former situation, and lived with a near relation, her brother, in whose house she still resides, not many miles north from London. This gentleman being acquainted with the affair, and finding reason to suspect that our worthy gallant had no intention to do justice to his sister, interfered, and after a negotiation, in the course of which Mr. Bower s shuffling, inconsistent character was sufficiently displayed, the affair was at last accommodated by the payment of five hundred pounds, in consideration of which, tho a thousand pounds had been at first demanded, Mr. Bower was set at liberty from his engagement; not long after his preface was made public. There was between this gentlewoman and me an acquaintance and friendship of a long standing, and several letters had passed. But this correspondence and friendship did not produce a contract of marriage. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
